WILLIAM HARTNETT, VICTIM OF TERRIBLE VIOLENCE

WILLIAM HARTNETT, DEAD LABOR LEADER.
Mr. Hartnett was formerly head of the Teamsters' Union, and was popular among his fellow workers. His death is declared to have been due to violence.

GAINS 3 TO 1 CHOICE IN BIG BOUT TO-DAY

BOTH COLORED BOY AND KID HERMAN ARE READY FOR A HARD BATTLE.

TONOPAH, Nev., Jan. 1.—Joe Gans of Baltimore, hero of nearly 120 battles in the roped square, and greatest holder of the lightweight championship of the world, will meet Kid Herman, a courageous youth from Chicago, here to-day in a battle for the much-coveted championship at 135 pounds.

The battle will be fought in a ring built in the center of an immense arena in this village, under the open sky. The present weather conditions it looks as if the two heavy pugilists will fight under the most favorable conditions that could be desired.

All previous boxing controversies have been in this part of the country. The amount of the month's salary involved, however, the pugilists will enter the ring under conditions of all, and fight the battle in one of the other arena from a well-defined blow by his antagonist for the championship of the world.

From the present betting indications there is little doubt in the minds of the multitude that Joe Gans will again emerge as the victor, and show that he is the only one who can properly claim the title in his division. On September 3, he defeated the late champion, Goldie, and after one of the most exciting fights of the season, he was given the negro on a fourth-round stoppage.

3 to 1 on Gans.

Betting is unusually active on this fight, largely as a result of the respect that Gans has created for himself as a ring master. Up to yesterday the supporters of the negro were wildly waving their money in the faces of those who said they would back Joe Gans.

When the supporters of Gans began to bet, they found that the Gans men were ready to take it. The figures are likely to rise as the fight draws to a close to-day, when the fighters are ready for action.

Manager Riley will have to depend on the money of the many small owners to make the fight. At least $20,000 must be guaranteed. At least $20,000 must be guaranteed. At least $20,000 must be guaranteed.

Medical Examiner Says Skull Was Fractured, Nose Broken and Side of Face Fearfully Bruised—Hartnett's Son Detained by Police in Effort to Clear the Mystery

WILLIAM A. HARTNETT, former president of the Boston Teamsters' Union, was murdered, in the opinion of Medical Examiner McDonald, who performed the autopsy. Dr. McDonald laid his findings before District Attorney Moran to-day. An immediate inquest has been ordered.

Headed Big Teamsters' Strike.

AT the time of the big teamsters' strike in Boston, Hartnett, who had long been interested in labor movements, was head of the Boston Teamsters' Union and took an active part in the direction of the contest, which was finally arbitrated by District Judge Brewer. For days the business streets were scenes of turbulence. Great crowds followed the strike leaders when they appeared on their terms at night and the police force was on duty guarding them from harm.

Aberdare Would Forgive If Son Could Show Particular Birth for Wife.

Private detectives engaged by the wealthy Lord Aberdare of England are now in this country seeking a pedigree for his lordship's new daughter-in-law, the Hon. Mrs. Henry Lyndhurst Bruce, formerly Miss Canfield Clifford, the bewitching actress. The detectives are now going over aristocratic genealogies, a colony of Philadelphia, with all the zeal that may be found, trying to establish an ancestral connection between the Paul Clifford of revolutionary fame and the present fair cascade of that name. It is expected that the detective will come in Boston, where Lady Bruce lived after she came from the present home which she is reported to have left in New York for her girlhood days.

The Norwegian story is to the effect that Canfield Clifford was the daughter of a man named Canfield Clifford, that her parents died when she was young and that she was taken into a family named Osterloo.

Went to Relatives' Home.

Lady Bruce came to this country and went to the home of a relative, Mrs. John Schell, at No. 14 Point Street, Boston, where it was at the Schell's last July that a very important Mrs. Clifford dated the report that she was to wed the Hon. Bruce.

But she did not wed the Hon. Bruce. Lord Aberdare is trying to find out an aristocratic lineage for his daughter-in-law, according to dispatches received from Philadelphia. He has sent private detectives working through the Clifford's who are there to find some really connected Clifford, but he or her is a hundred years back from whom his lordship may claim an ancestry for the Hon. Mrs. Lyndhurst Bruce.

Armed with unlimited funds, the detective would search for a Clifford who was a great deal of a haughty and aristocratic person, and on the track of still more aristocratic connections.

"Our agency," said one of the detectives, "is employed by Lord Aberdare's agent, who is superintending the work. He wants to be convinced that the Hon. Mrs. Lyndhurst Bruce is really a Clifford."

It is said that the old gentleman has given orders that no matter how much it costs, he must find the pedigree of the Hon. Mrs. Lyndhurst Bruce.

Clifford lived in Germany two years ago, in one of the quiet old stone houses which are the distinctive mark of the old German architecture.

CORE CLIPPING UP CASTLE FOR MISS GILMAN

Splendid Estate Near Paris,
Where Actress Lives, Being Prepared for Wedding.

WAS HOME OF BONAPARTES

PARIS, Jan. 1.—In preparation for what is believed to be his marriage to Miss Mary Gilman, the actress, President William Taft is having the splendid estate of Villeneuve, where Miss Gilman is now living in her native land.

Mr. Taft is in Paris and has taken pains to say that he is in Paris to see Miss Gilman in the immediate future, or even during his present stay in France.

It is the little hamlet which straggles along the banks of the Seine, and is the only one of its kind.

"To Wed Rich Gentleman."

The beautiful actress lady who is occupying the castle is said to be the daughter of a French nobleman who is a member of the French nobility.

Merchants Celebrate Advent of 1907.

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE.

The ruffian rebate hides his face in shadow and shuddering shame; No more it holds its haughty place In the financial game; The glad New Year, Today is here, And old John D. And such as he, Are going to be good.

The forerunner and all that sort Of high accomplishments That once assisted to support Insurance presidents Remain to-day In jail, gray, Immense desecrated; Insurance men Now in the "pen" Are going to be good.

The judge that made two lamp-posts rise Where one stood forth ere now, No longer adds and multiplies As in the days of yore. No longer now Have made the vote That all nice people should; And for—well, say They're going to be good.

HERBIE'S how! New Year, and as you wake From your long, timeless sleep, Grant that the vote we lightly make Be not too good to keep. The years we've had—some bad—Have done the best they could; New Year, that you Were going to be good!

WIVES MOTHER S TO TESTIFY AGAINST THAW

Life Says Parent Is to Attend
Trial, but Not as State
Witness.

NEW YORK, Jan. 1.—Mrs. Nellie Thaw, the widow of the late of standard White, last night broke long silence in an exclusive statement to the American, in which she declared that she, as mother, Mrs. C. J. Thaw, of Philadelphia, is coming to New York for the purpose of testifying against her husband.
Her father, Attorney General, said that she and other relatives are coming from New York voluntarily to assist in the prosecution of the case. Mrs. Thaw is the daughter of the late John Thaw, a wealthy merchant and philanthropist, who resided in the drawing room of his estate at Larchmont, at 100th street, and residence street. Mrs. Thaw is married, her husband, was present during the trial. Mrs. Thaw, who is a long and slender woman, was seen last night as she came to New York for the trial.

Just Change Wrought in a Year.

Mrs. Thaw, taking the purpose of the case, was seen in the dining room for the first time since the trial.
She was seen in the dining room for the first time since the trial. She was seen in the dining room for the first time since the trial. She was seen in the dining room for the first time since the trial. She was seen in the dining room for the first time since the trial.

Became Real Countess.

When the earl died her husband assumed the title and the mantle of earl and became a real countess. She was seen in the dining room for the first time since the trial. She was seen in the dining room for the first time since the trial. She was seen in the dining

MUST MUZZLE ALL DOGS IN BOSTON

All dogs in Boston must be muzzled within a limited time. In order to that effect was passed yesterday by the Board of Health, a resolution which will require the owners of dogs to have their dogs muzzled within a limited time. The resolution was passed by a vote of 10 to 2. The muzzles will be made of wire mesh and will be of such a size as to prevent the dog from eating anything.

While 'Teddy Bear' Craze While All Right for Children, When Adopted by Women Is Most Ridiculous Fad

Says
BEATRICE FAIRFAX

WE can hardly blame the men for making fun of us when we look about and see some of the fads that women indulge in.

Perhaps the most foolish of all has been the "Teddy Bear." His bearship is a delightful toy for children, but when it comes to women carrying him about with them it is just a trifle too ridiculous.

No sensible woman, of course, would be guilty of such folly, but it is surprising to find how many idle, empty-headed women there are to be seen upon fads and ride them to death.

Last Summer at Atlantic City it is said that a young woman, in a spirit of fun, bought a first-class ticket, took it up and down the boardwalk. There was no harm in that, but unfortunately it was looked upon as a new fashion, instead of a joke, and hence the birth of the Teddy bear fad among women.

There are thousands of foolish ladies in the land who never receive such caresses as are lavished upon these hominoid plush toys.

How many women you see driving down Fifth Avenue with pet dogs snugly wrapped up on the seat beside them! These dogs are washed and bathed and perfumed every day, and if anything is wrong with them a doctor is called at once and no expense is spared.

I wonder how the half-starved, shivering children feel as they look at the plush toys and pampered dogs. Are their little hearts filled with envy, or do they accept it with the apathy of custom?

I saw one young mother look at a Boston terrier the other day who was looked at the warily dressed dog, then at her own poorly dressed baby, and a better look crossed her face. Then, with a little nascent gesture, she hugged her baby closely and walked on.

Two women, the one with the dog and the other with the baby, there was no question as to which was getting the best out of life. The woman with the dog could not know the thrill which the other woman felt at the clinking of soft baby fingers, and the nursing against her face of the little downy head.

What if she was poor, she was a mother, and no woman can find any higher, nobler career in life than motherhood.

Girls, don't envy the woman you see driving about in a carriage or automobile, her sole consolation an overfed dog.

This Earth Without Men Would Soon Be a Very Funny Place

By Winifred Black

MR. MARY HAYDEN of Chicago has announced that she is going down into Central America somewhere to found a colony of women.

These women are going to raise coffee or sugar or rubber or whatever it is that will grow down there, where the sun tans the white man to the color of mahogany, and Mrs. Hayden says that she and her colonists are going to be as good as gold and had as much as they want of everything.

Who's going to say all the things a woman would like to say, but dares not, when it rains and the sun is out, or gets so hot that there is no fun in living? Who's going to be the first to take the blame for everything, and get the best of everything and look proud at all the while she's doing it?

Life without a man is a very lonely one, it's like roast lamb without the mustard pickle.

In the first place, these women won't have a decent bit to eat and they'll all die of inanition before the first year of the colony is out.

Whenever a woman says to me, "I'm going to be a woman," I tell her to wait a day or two with me. I forget her address, but I go to the bank and get an important telegram calling me out of town. I tell her to wait until I come back. I tell her to wait until I come back.

What's going to happen to the little address and subtracting and counting the bank account and planning for the new house? And who's going to stand between a tired woman and the coffee?

Existence without a man in the house is a very funny place. I don't know how long it will last just about long enough for the first letter from home to get down there—and that's all.

Questions for Young Couples

For Her

Do I see too much and forget that if a household is to run smoothly one must not "put on one's spectacles" too often and pounce on every small delinquency.

Do I speak of my husband contemptuously behind his back in the hearing of the children, and then wonder why they fail to obey him?

Do I, in my keen desire to be a good housekeeper, neglect all the accomplishments and "graces of intellect" of my maiden days, and then wonder why my spouse is so fond of the club in the evenings?

Do I know that when I have been a long spell living a monotonous life, and have become morose and irritable, a convert, or a visit to a good play, may send me home again quite renovated in spirit?

Am I aware of the fact that while I have sometimes worried disaster to my husband by telling friends "his confidence" of things concerning professional or business matters which their husbands have confided to them?

For Him

Do I sometimes feel provoked with my wife's want of interest in politics and municipal affairs, and feel that I have certainly not taken much trouble to arouse her interest in these matters?

Do I expect my wife to feel delighted when I bring home two or three friends to dinner without having taken the trouble earlier in the day to "house her to expect them?"

Do I ever seriously consider what genuine anguish my foolish jingling with girls may cause my wife, although I look on them merely as an occasional amusement for passing an idle hour?

Am I aware of the fact that while I have sometimes worried disaster to my husband by telling friends "his confidence" of things concerning professional or business matters which their husbands have confided to them?

Do I remember that constant fault-finding on the part of a husband is as depressing to a wife's spirits as constant nagging on the part of a wife is irritating to a man?

HEARST'S BOSTON AMERICAN

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST

80 AND 82 SUMNER ST., BOSTON, JANUARY 1, 1907

Write a Page About Yourself
Puff Your Character to Pieces, Then Start Over

After various slips of forgetfulness, proving the power of habit, we begin from to-day to write 1907 above our letters.

Every man, whether he wants to or not, HAS GOT TO TURN OVER A NEW LEAF TO-DAY.

A new year begins, a new book opens. The history of men as a whole, and of EACH of us, moves on one page. We have traveled one more year toward the end of the century, which is only a minute in the earth's history. We have traveled one more year toward the end of our lives, WHICH IS ALL THAT WE HAVE TO WORK AND TO SUCCEED IN.

What shall we write on the new page? What will the new book with all its pages look like?

Each of us knows the blots upon last year's book. And each of us knows something worse than the blots—THE EMPTY PAGES—the pages that have no meaning, that represent the days IN WHICH WE DID NOTHING.

"New Year's resolutions are old," men say—so they are. "Hell is paved with good intentions," they say. Perhaps it is. But you may be sure that if there was a personal devil, he would HATE the day of good resolutions bitterly. There is such a thing as paving and repaving that hot place so often AS TO FILL IT UP TO THE TOP.

It won't do any harm to repave the road this year. If each of us makes ten good resolutions and drops three, or even nine, he can afford to contribute the nine paving stones to the infernal regions IF HE HELPS HIMSELF BY ONE-TENTH OF HIS INTENTIONS.

After you have read this, and after you have eaten your dinner, or your supper, it might be worth while to take a pencil and a piece of paper and sit down to figure out your next year.

Divide the sheet of paper with a line down the middle, leaving two columns. Write at the top, "MY CHARACTER."

Below, in the right hand side, put the line, "In my favor"; to the left hand side of the line, "AGAINST ME."

Then below each heading write THOUGHTFULLY just how you stand.

In the column against you, you can write everything that wastes your time. Amusement, if overdone, and WHISKY.

Smoking, if excessive.

Eating, if immoderate.

And so on all the way down.

On the other side write the things that HELP you. If you don't drink at all, that counts a great deal.

If you don't smoke at all, that counts. It means money saved and nerves saved.

If you have the faculty of REGULARITY AT WORK, that is a good deal. Then you must ask yourself whether your IMAGINATION is dull, and if that is so, write the fact down in the bad column.

Study the way that you DO YOUR WORK, and mark it FOR or AGAINST.

Study the way that your mind is working and mark it "for" or "against."

If you read little, and chiefly trash, that is a mark against you. If you read too much, without digestion, that is bad.

This suggestion we have sketched out very roughly. To some of our readers it may seem foolish, but it will not seem foolish to others. SOME OF THE WORLD'S GREATEST MEN HAVE STUDIED THEIR OWN CHARACTERS WITH INTENSE INTEREST and great profit.

One of the worst things in the world is to think TOO MUCH OF YOURSELF. Something about as bad is to think NOT AT ALL ABOUT YOURSELF, thus avoiding the unpleasant task of BLAMING YOURSELF. Once a year is not too often for "stock-taking" in our characters.

It is a poor merchant who does not take stock in his store ONCE a year at least.

It will pay you well, man or woman, boy or girl, old or young, to open up such a little account as we have suggested and go over it carefully.

Where there is a family group, it might be well for each of the different members of the family to draw up his or her own account, and then to compare notes. Suggestions, criticisms or amendments should be very kindly. They might be very useful and help the entire family TO START THE NEW YEAR WITH GREATER PROMISE.

The advice about the new year is usually confined to men. We think of men "renewing off." And then we think of men not keeping their resolutions. But the story that the comic paper tells is not THE REAL STORY. Nobody knows what humanity owes to the quiet, determined resolutions that men take at striking periods in their life, on birthdays, on New Year's Day, or when some sorrow or failure has suddenly brought them face to face with their own smallness.

Women should take good New Year resolutions. They should be especially active IN INSPIRING GOOD RESOLUTIONS. The best things that men do are done THANKS TO THE ENCOURAGEMENT OF GOOD WOMEN. Women should direct with kind suggestions the resolutions of men. Their intuition and their own sense of self-respect, a hundred times greater than that of any man, will dictate to them the resolutions they should take. They need especially to inspire themselves more. They should advise men to take resolutions especially IN REGARD TO HEALTH. This world and the future depend UPON THE HEALTH OF THE MIND AND PHYSICAL OF THE MOTHERS. We do not want to talk about the world for the world is not our business. We want to tell women earnestly that it is the strong, powerful mothers who save the world for the sons who do good work. AND HELPS LIFT THEM FROM THE BACKS OF THE POOR. The powerful Nancy Hanks, big and brave, THOUGH WOMAN, as Lincoln with his towering frame, huge hands and a soldier's MAKE UP YOUR MINDS TO BE HEALTHY. Remember the GUARDIANS OF THE WELFARE OF THE HUMAN RACE, discover, confess and resolve against your own foolishness. Even if you don't keep fashionable, laugh at the foolish Irish woman fashion leads to stave them.

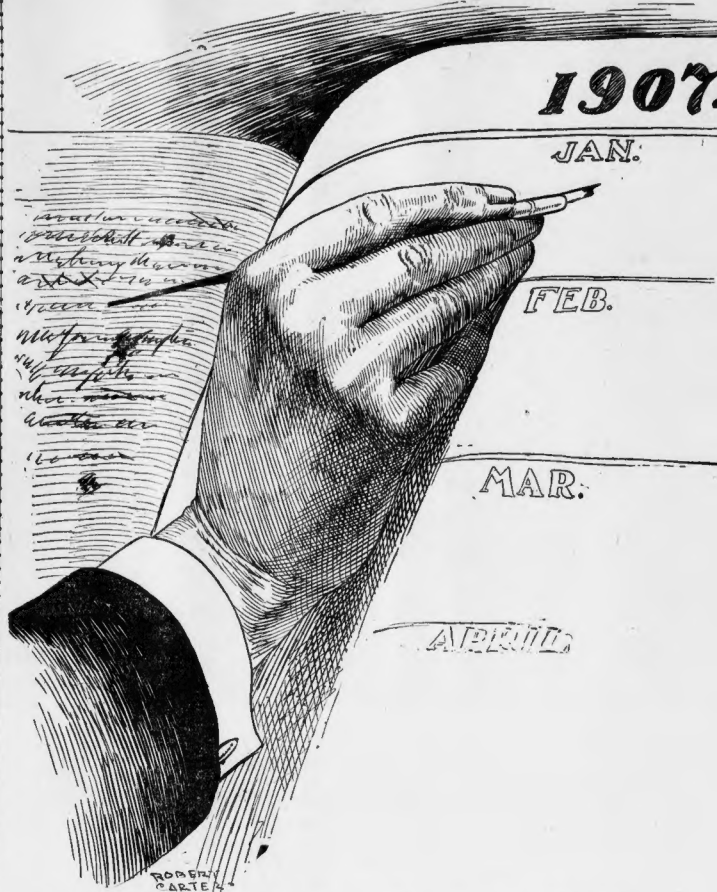

TAKE ADVICE from women, especially from your mothers and wives. The women who mind short or fall with you, who are of your failure, and who get VERY LITTLE OF THE GLORY SUCCESS.

Readers, to-day a new year begins. There is a new CHANCE for all of us. The past is forgiven and wiped out if we do our best in the present. Let us all remember that UNITED THOUGHT, UNITED ACTION, CAN bring good government. United in understanding of our own shortcomings, BUT AWARE OF THE POWER OF UNITED ACTION, LET US GO AHEAD AND TRY TO DO WHAT WE CAN IN OUR FEW DAYS, WITH OUR FEIBLE STRENGTH, TO MAKE THE WORLD INTO WHICH WE WERE BORN A BETTER PLACE THAN WE FOUND IT, a happier home for human beings.

To all of our readers we wish a happy New Year. We thank them for encouragement, for kind help, for good advice and honest criticism during the past year. We thank them for their good nature in putting up with our mistakes. And we promise that this newspaper, which THEY HAVE CREATED, will at least TRY, in the coming year, to be worthy of their support.

WHAT'S THE USE? DOES IT PAY?

1. You are a man thoroughly imbued with gallantry and courtesy. So, when you are a beautiful female creature by the storm, you offer her the protection of your umbrella.

2. And you expect her to pay home with a full consciousness of having done a courteous and kindly action.

3. And the next day you realize that your act of courtesy must have been observed, for many male friends greet you with knowing winks and remarks about "my old dog," "gay old bird," etc.

4. And on your arrival home that evening it is evident your wife has also heard of your noble act of gallantry and misinterpreted it, for—GALLANTRY! COURTESY! BOSH! WHAT'S THE USE? PAY?

Russian Might VS.
American Right

By Charles Fleischer
(RABBI TEMPLE ADATH ISRAEL)

THE Russo-Japanese war is not over. And apparently Russia will bring her battles.

No. 1. I do not mean to mock at the demoralized state of the Russian navy. The court-martial of the admiral has just been completed. The verdict seems to be: "You turned therefore your heads you lost!"

After all, it is only an open battle. The admirals are condemned for suffering defeat at the hands of the Russian navy. The punishment is not too severe. Inasmuch as a former because of their previous good records. The whole preceding episode is hardly a hundred years ago the Russian navy was supposed to come home from battle either bearing their shields or their dead bodies upon them.

We still believe in value, though we have gradually learned to translate the physical courage which constitutes the highest military virtue, into more terms. This is one of the fine results of progressive civilization.

Life now is not so simple as it was up to one hundred years ago. In our complex society, safety is the basis of all qualities necessary to live manfully and to enjoy earthly life. Both in the economic struggle for existence and in the lists of civil strife for right and justice.

And yet I have boundless hope for Russia. It needs but little faith in human nature and in human progress to see that Russia must walk the way of the western nations.

Every out-of-date incident, such as the one mentioned above, which happens in Russia, ought to move us as Americans to say: "We do these things better here."

It is not a matter of national pride, or progress, or are we marking time, or are we not backward-looking?

It is not a matter of national pride, or progress, or are we marking time, or are we not backward-looking? It is not a matter of national pride, or progress, or are we marking time, or are we not backward-looking?

And then there is that next point to be considered. THE DILEMMA OF THE FUTURE. This will not be solved by any of the old and tried methods of the past.

The people, then, are all the inhabitants of our land. The interests and the rights of all must be considered and respected in the movement to establish individual liberty in America.

Every democratic theory counts for nothing but for the sake of the cause in faraway Russia.

He is the freeman whom the truth makes free. And all are slaves beside. COWPER.

George Bernard Shaw

Second of a Series of Five Articles in Which He Tells How Socialism Would Affect the Artistic Professions
HOW ART FORMS OUR IDEAS
By George Bernard Shaw

THE artist is a man who forms the human mind. You see people who act to work quite seriously to write books to form the human mind who are not artists, and who never succeed in forming the human mind, and who never can write a book which anybody would read. It always rests in the hands of the man who will write a readable book, and that man is the artist. The artist who are really further from nature and further from reality really manage to impose their code on mankind and it becomes a real thing, and people begin to have romantic ideas and beliefs.

You see the same thing in religion. The instinct which people's religious ideas are turned from the first, goes very far beyond what most people are conscious of.

If you take the most sacred visions which are given to you by your religion it is worth while considering where this country who are really devoted to the religion whom the most sacred picture in the whole universe is the picture of Jesus Christ.

You will find that almost all of those people have a very handsome young man with a touch of Mr. Keir Hardie about him. That is only the middle-class idea, which, of course, did not prevail in the old Jewish school of painting, although there is no doubt whatever as to the sincerity of these Christians.

It is really worth considering for a moment what is that you have got that vision of Christ.

The nearest to the question is that artists have adopted that type and made it their type. If you want to your Bible to try to find out the type, and really try to find out the type, that I really don't know who the person in whom you would most like Christ.

The English Bible is a remarkable example in art, at least of the enormous influence of art on people and the reason why you get such religious ideas is the extraordinary susceptibility of English people to art.

Art Forms Ideas

confined to the Bible. You have Shakespeare as another case. The ordinary Englishman will not regard Shakespeare as literature; he regards him as a comedy and a tragedy. This opinion of two books that the ordinary Englishman reads and reads—Shakespeare and the Bible—is strange.

He has enough of their phraseology to make use of in his own writing. The art of music is very closely allied to literature, because the fancy of the whole race has been largely the music of words, which is also the whole secret of Shakespeare's anybody who makes a great success literature.
